It's not too late to get your flu shot

Getting a flu shot early in the fall is best, but if it slipped your mind, don't worry. Getting one now can still protect you for the remainder of the flu season. Flu viruses change, so the annual vaccine is updated to protect against the virus strains that are expected to go around this year.

Because of the pandemic, getting a flu shot is especially smart this year. Vaccination against the flu helps in two ways. First, if it keeps you from being hospitalized with the flu, that puts less strain on your local healthcare system. Second, it can prevent a disease with symptoms that are very similar to those of COVID-19.

Adults should get a seasonal flu vaccine every year — especially if you're an older adult, have chronic health conditions or are pregnant.

Make sure children 6 months and older are protected by the flu vaccine, too. A flu shot can help keep very young kids and those with chronic conditions (like asthma, diabetes or disorders of the brain or nervous system) out of the hospital.

Contact your doctor today to schedule your flu shot. Then you can breathe easy for the rest of flu season.

Reduce your child's risk of choking at mealtimes

Because children under the age of 4 are at risk of choking while eating, the U.S. Department of Agriculture offers parents and caregivers a colorful four-page resource guide. It includes tips on:

- Preparing foods to make them easier to chew
- Choking hazards to avoid
- Ways to model and teach good eating habits

Download this resource in English or Spanish at:

fns.usda.gov/tn/reducing-risk-choking-young-children-mealtimes.

This resource was developed as a collaboration between USDA Food and Nutrition Service Child Nutrition Programs, Office of Food Safety, Special Supplemental Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC), and Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program Education (SNAP-Ed).

New home medical equipment and supplies program

Beginning January 1, 2021, Geisinger Health Plan (GHP) will be working with Tomorrow Health to streamline the ordering and delivery of your home medical equipment and supplies. Tomorrow Health is a comprehensive platform that will match your order to the most appropriate supplier in GHP's network.

To ensure you receive the best care experience, Tomorrow Health offers:

- Premium service: Tomorrow Health's dedicated team of care advocates are available by phone and email and can assist with everything from product selection to prescription and insurance coordination.
- Reliable delivery and product support: Tomorrow Health will support you from order placement and delivery through in-home setup. We'll also close the loop with your provider, so that you stay on track with your care plan.
- Easy ordering: Health care providers and members can place orders for home medical equipment and supplies securely online or by phone.

Existing orders

If you currently receive a recurring home medical supply order or equipment rental, there is nothing you need to do at this time. Tomorrow Health will reach out to you directly in 2021 should your orders be impacted.

New orders

Visit home.tomorrowhealth.com/ghp or call 844-402-4344, and Tomorrow Health's care advocate team can help you navigate your needs. Your provider may also place new orders directly through the Tomorrow Health platform.

Tomorrow Health was founded on the belief that patients deserve an exceptional experience for care at home. With that, they've brought together personal service and modern technology to get you the products and supplies you need, covered by your insurance, delivered and set up in your home. Tomorrow Health is looking forward to serving you.

Keep moving this winter

Most people find it easier to be active during the warmer weather. But don't let winter wreck your activity level. Sure, it's cold outside and gets dark early, but if you can stay motivated and keep moving as a family, you'll all stay healthier, keep your weight down and beat those winter blues!

The first step? Avoid hibernating indoors. We all need sunshine for vitamin D to boost our mood and fresh air to feel energized. Before you and the kids head out, have them warm up their muscles with exercises like jumping jacks or jogging in place so they won't feel as cold going outside. Wear layers so clothes can be removed if they get too warm. Then get out there and do some shoveling, go sled-riding or ice skating, build a snowman or fort or just take a brisk walk around the neighborhood.

If getting outside isn't your thing, try some at-home activities. Hop on a treadmill or stationary bike or follow along with an exercise video. To get kids involved, play some tunes and have a dance party in your living room, play hide and seek or anything to get moving.

Mix it up — you don't have to do the same thing every day. The trick is to keep moving, however you want to do it.

Neighborly offers a helping hand

Neighborly, powered by Geisinger, is an easy-to-use online tool that helps connect you to free and reduced-cost programs and services, including food, housing, childcare, transportation, utility assistance, education, healthcare, legal services and financial assistance. Because everyone needs help sometimes – but may not know how or where to go to get it – our goal is to make these services available through our website, NeighborlyPA.com. So you can find resources right in your neighborhood.

As the days get colder, connect to heating and utility assistance services so you can spend lots of warm time with your loved ones. Find the local resources you need, from food to housing to medical care, right in your community – that's Neighborly.

Geisinger's GED program for members

Preparing to earn your high school equivalency diploma? If you're a GHP member, Geisinger offers financial GED® support. Getting your GED expands your options for job opportunities as well as higher education and career advancement.

Geisinger's GED funding covers the cost for your training materials, practice testing, the GED test and two retests (reapplication is necessary after the second retest). Want to request an application or have questions? Call Health and Wellness at 866-415-7138, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

You can also complete an application online by visiting the Wellness section of the Geisinger Health Plan member portal at geisinger.org/health-plan/sign-in. After signing in, click on the Health and Wellness drop-down menu and choose "GED Funding Application."

For more information on GED testing in Pennsylvania and the materials needed, or to create a no-cost account, visit ged.com.

Get the lead out

If you have very young children, keep them healthy by getting them screened for lead poisoning. Serious health issues can arise when children are exposed over time to lead-based paint, lead pipes or lead-contaminated dust in older buildings.

When a child has high levels of lead in their body, they may have symptoms including:

- Learning problems
- Slow growth
- Vomiting
- Hearing loss
- Loss of appetite
- Tiredness
- Constipation
- Slow growth

Get your child tested at their 1-year well visit and then again. You can call your doctor to schedule, or you can also call our CHIP member service at 866-621-5235 (PA Relay: 711) to schedule a professional screening.

Prescriptions at your doorstep

Who wouldn't like one less errand to run? With Geisinger Mail Order Pharmacy, you get a 3-month supply (up to 100 days of medications) mailed directly to you.

To get started, call Geisinger Mail Order Pharmacy at 844-878-5562, between 6:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., Monday through Friday, or visit geisinger.org/pharmacy.

This benefit includes maintenance medications, like diabetes, blood pressure or cholesterol medications, but does not include all medications. Benefits and costs will vary, depending on your specific coverage, or if you're enrolled in a cost assistance program. Contact the Customer Care Team with any questions.*
