Medically Necessary — A service, item, procedure, or level of care that is necessary for the proper treatment or management of an illness, injury, or disability is one that:

DESCRIPTION:
The human papillomavirus (HPV) DNA test is done on a sample of cells collected from the cervix and checks for the genetic material of the human papillomavirus. The test is used to identify whether a high-risk type of HPV (types 16, 18, 31, and 45) is present.

INDICATIONS:
1. The assessment of members at any age when a Pap smear detects:
   • Atypical squamous cells of undetermined significance (ASCUS); or
   • Low-grade squamous intraepithelial (LSIL) cells

2. As a cervical cancer screening option when used alone or in combination with a Pap smear or liquid-based cytology in members aged 30 years and older according to US Preventive Services Task Force (USPSTF) recommendations.

EXCLUSIONS:
• Use as a primary screening test option in members younger than 30 years of age
• Use when positive cervical cytology has been definitively identified

Medicaid Business Segment:
Any requests for services, that do not meet criteria set in the PARP, will be evaluated on a case by case basis.

Note: A complete description of the process by which a given technology or service is evaluated and determined to be experimental, investigational or unproven is outlined in MP 15 - Experimental Investigational or Unproven Services or Treatment.
